

ZOMBA PLATEAU

WHAT IS IT?

Rising up above the mist, the 2085-meter high Zomba Plateau overlooks the historic town of Zomba, Malawi's former capital city. The road up to the plateau itself is a spiral with some breath taking views. The entire plateau is a tranquil forest reserve renowned for its temperate climate, natural splendor and magnificent views.

WHAT CAN ONE DO THERE?

Upon arrival to the Queen or Emperor's viewpoints, you will be approximately 2000 meters high and be treated to a lovely picnic, proving to be a rather unique experience.

In the background is The Mulanje Mountain, Malawi's highest peak and probably the highest point in Southern Africa, standing 3002 meters above the Phalombe Plains. Lake Chilwa, Malawi's only inland drainage lake lies to the east of the plateau. Below lies the town of Zomba, a treasure trove of colors and vibrant markets which reminds visitors of the old colonial days.
